Picking Up the Pieces

by Allen Jones

When Asa was about five years old, we bought him a bicycle for his birthday. Given that his birthday is in December, the weather did not permit him to ride it outside for a while.

One morning, he decided to ride down the hallway. He did not know how to use the breaks and ran into a curio cabinet smashing the glass in the bottom door. We heard the crash and the crying! Once we got to him, shards of glass lay in the floor. Asa was scared, upset, and devastated for the moment.

This real life event parallels life. When we least expect it, something comes our way and shatters our hopes, dreams, and comfort.

Because of Jesus, as difficult as it may be, we can pick up the pieces and refocus on Him as He rebuilds and puts us back together. 1 Timothy 1:1 says, "the Lord Jesus Christ, is our hope."

Titus 3:7 says "that having been justified by God's grace we should become heirs according to the hope of eternal life."

When our world shatters, we can rely on our hope that is found in Jesus Christ. If we are obedient to what God commands (Ecclesiastes 12:13-14), when we are "picking up the pieces," we can do so with confidence that life on earth will have a healing element to it. And through faith, obedience, and love for Christ we can endure, persevere, and even grow emotionally and spiritually because of a godly response to the brokenness we experience in this worldly life.

As we travel through the hills and valleys of life, may we be healed, strengthened, and put back together by our bond with Jesus Christ, the Son of the Living God.

The God of the Impossible

by Larry Fitzgerald

Amy Brockman worked as a ski instructor for a prestigious ski resort and also trained there for the U.S. Olympic Ski Team. One day a skier accidentally skied into Amy, knocked her into a lift chair, then she fell off the platform and broke her neck. The doctors said, "You'll never walk or ski again." But while she was in the hospital, one scripture kept going through Amy's mind: "Nothing is impossible with God" (Luke 1:37). She prayed: "Lord, I need your help and strength to get through this."

Amy left the hospital confined to a wheelchair, but she worked hard in therapy. She would take one step and fall on the next. Her therapist tried to help but she said, "leave me alone for a while, God wants me on my knees." There in the therapy room floor, she prayed for God's help and strength.

She then managed to get to her feet and take another step, then one more, and fell on the third. Once again, while on her knees in the floor, she prayed for strength. This repeated for 7 months and she finally walked the distance of two city blocks without falling. Then, once again, she lowered herself to her knees and thanked God for his help and His strength. Today, Amy is skiing and teaching skiing at another resort. Every day, she tells people that God is the God of the impossible. Our Lord is able to rebuild broken lives through open receptive hearts, that don't give up.
